Announcement: The National Institutes of Health (NIH) will open use of the fed-wide progress reporting form — known as the RPPR (Research Performance Progress Report) — for all Type 5 Non-SNAP (Streamlined Non-competing Award Process) progress reports on April 25, 2014. NIH expects to make use of the RPPR for non-SNAP progress reports a requirement in October 2014. For more information, please refer to the following Notice.

This announcement is part of NIH's ongoing transition to requiring the use of the federal government-wide RPPR form for all progress reporting. NIH's website on the RPPR provides information on the why, what, and when of the RPPR.

Below is a table that lets you know for which types of grants the RPPR is now required, and for which it is still optional.

TYPE OF PROGRESS REPORT	PROGRESS REPORT FORMAT
Streamlined Non-Competing Award Process (SNAP)	RPPR - required
Fellowship	RPPR - required
Non-SNAP	RPPR or PHS 2590 - Pilot for FDP institutions only, format at discretion of institution. PHS 2590 - required for non-FDP institutions
Multi-Year-Funded (MYF)	RPPR - required
Phase I Final Year (Phase II Type 4 Application)	PHS 398 or PHS 2590 - defined by terms of award
